

Jackfruit

As a leading jackfruit exporter in India, we specialize in a range of high-quality jackfruit varieties including Black Gold, Cochin, Red Bartlett, and more. Our commitment is to ensure that the jackfruit exported from India meets top-notch quality standards and adheres to international health and safety guidelines. Here are some of the key varieties we export:

1. BLACK GOLD

The Black Gold jackfruit is known for its vigorous growth and compact, easy-to-handle canopy. These fruits are typically medium-sized, weighing about 6.7 kg each, with an impressive 35% of the fruit being edible flesh. The skin is dark green and covered with prominent, fleshy spines that give it a distinct appearance.

2. COCHIN

The Cochin variety stands out for its smaller size and smooth texture compared to other types. As it matures, the spines flatten, causing the fruit to split open naturally. This variety is particularly appreciated for its tender and easily accessible flesh, making it a favorite among many jackfruit enthusiasts.

3. RED BARTLETT

The Red Bartlett jackfruit is a unique, exotic variety known for its medium size and oval shape. This variety requires annual pruning to maintain an ideal tree height and spread of about 3 to 3.5 meters. The fruits themselves are visually striking, transitioning from a vibrant green to a soft yellow as they ripen. They are also uniform in shape, making them appealing for both consumers and sellers.

4.GOLDEN NUGGET

The Golden Nugget is a fast-growing jackfruit variety with distinctive dark green, rounded leaves. Its fruits are compact, green, and rounded, featuring a textured surface with fleshy spines that gradually smooth out and turn a golden-yellow as they mature. A typical Golden Nugget fruit weighs about 3.2 kg, making it a smaller but highly desirable option for those who enjoy a sweet and easy-to-handle jackfruit.

5.KOOZHA CHAKKA

Koozha Chakka is a distinctive jackfruit variety hailing from South India. This type is known for its small, fibrous, and soft carpels that have a delightful sweetness and a slightly mushy texture. It's a highly favored variety due to its rich, sweet taste, making it a popular choice for export from India.

6.KOOZHA PAZHAM

Koozha Pazham is another notable jackfruit variety from South India, prized for its commercial value. It features crisp, high-quality carpels, often referred to as "Varika." These sturdy and flavorful carpels make Koozha Pazham a sought-after choice for both domestic and international markets, known for its premium taste and texture.
